Back Seat Is Best!

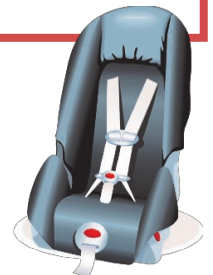

The safest place for you to ride in the car is the back seat. Children under the age of 13 years old should ride in the backseat. Children should ride in the appropriate car safety seat until they are 4'9" tall. Some classmates will sit in car seats and some will sit in booster seats. What kind of seat do you buckle up in? Both are cool!

Tips for Parents

- Washington State Law requires children to ride in the backseat until 13 years old.
- High-back boosters provide whiplash protection
- Look for open shoulder belt guides for better fit and wide/deep base for larger children
